

Alfred A. Loeb State Park

From Myrtlewood to Redwood

Follow the park's 3/4-mile-long Riverview Trail to the U.S. Forest Service's Redwood Nature Trail, which offers access to the northernmost stand of redwoods on the Pacific Coast. A trailhead with parking is located near the park's riverside day-use entrance.

More to See and Do

Harris Beach State Park: The long sandy beach at this park is a beachcomber's delight with rocky outcrops for tidepooling fun, too. Bring the binoculars to watch the nesting sea birds and other wildlife on the largest island off the Oregon coast, a formation called alternately "Bird" or "Goat" Island.

Samuel Boardman State Scenic Corridor: This 12-mile-long day-use park along U.S. 101 features several wayside viewpoints, some with picnic tables where you can sit and enjoy unparalleled ocean scenery. To really savor the offshore seascapes, explore the coastline park by foot on the Oregon Coast Trail. The southern end of the park is only three miles north of Harris Beach. Play it safe, stay on established trails!

Boats in Brookings: A boat ramp, moorage facilities, boat rentals, and charter boat service are located at the south jetty near the mouth of the Chetco River.

California Redwoods: Beautiful stands of these ancient trees can be found in parks from 20 minutes to a few hours south of Loeb, making for a nice day trip down the coast toward California.

More beach access: McVay Rock, Crissey Field, and Winchuck State Recreation Sites offer access to beaches south of Brookings. A visitor welcome center at Crissey Field has more information about things to see and do in the area.

Smoking in Oregon State Parks is allowed only in personal vehicles, RVs, paid campsites and portions of day use parks along state highways that are designated as safety rest areas by the Oregon Department of Transportation.
