Branbury State Park

Welcome to Branbury State Park on the eastern shore of Lake Dunmore at the base of Mt. Moosalamoo. Located in the town of Salisbury, the park consists of 64.25 acres. It borders the Green Mountain National Forest borders the park to the east, giving access to extensive hiking and mountain biking opportunities.

The popularity of Lake Dunmore as a vacation spot began in the early 20th century when the Cascade House served as a resort at the present park location. In 1919, new buyers converted the facilities to a boys' camp that operated for 12 years. Shirley Farr of Brandon acquired the property in 1931 and ran the park as a swimming beach and picnic area.

In 1931, Ms. Farr gave the State of Vermont a 23-acre parcel including 1,000 feet of beach, a pavilion, a bathhouse, a concession stand and an old farmhouse. The area became Branbury State Park, named for the nearby towns of Brandon and Salisbury. In 1960, a 23-site campground was constructed, making the park a camping destination.

Hiking, boating and fishing are popular activities at this busy park. The trails to Silver Lake and the Falls of Lana in the neighboring Green Mountain National Forest are popular attractions.
